CHESHVAN-KISLEV 5775

From the Rabbi's Study...

In the spirit of the upcoming holiday of Thanksgiving, I would like to relay a story that I read about a wise woman who was traveling in the mountains and found a precious stone in a stream. The next day she met another traveler who was hungry, and the wise woman opened her bag to share her food. The hungry traveler saw the precious stone and asked the woman to give it to him. She did so without hesitation. The traveler left, rejoicing in his good fortune. He knew the stone was worth enough to give him security for a lifetime. But a few days later he came back to return the stone to the wise woman. "I've been thinking," he said, "I know how valuable the stone is, but I am giving it back in the hope that you can give me something even more precious. Give me what you have within you that enabled you to give me the stone."

Do we truly think of what it means to be thankful for our loved ones, our friends, our homes and all those precious stones that we have been granted, or do we just grumble and complain? Do we go through life expecting others to provide us with their precious stones or do we have within us that which enables us to give our precious stones to others, be it financial help, friendship and companionship, volunteering our time and expertise, or just a warm smile.

One of the challenges in life is that often we don't recognize that a particular stone is precious and therefore it is either ignored or discarded. This is one of the reasons that so many relationships dissolve, so many people are unhappy in their jobs, and the psychiatrists' offices are always full.

Judaism teaches us to recognize and appreciate our precious stones. On Friday nights we recite ayshet chayil to our wives and offer a blessing to our children. We say a b'racha over our food and thank G-d for all that he has granted us. We are also expected to use our blessings to help others by giving tzedakah. This is not for purposes of tax deductions. We express our gratitude to G-d by allowing others to live with dignity.

One stone that is often overlooked and not recognized

From the Officers...

Hello. Many of you may know my face, as I have grown up at K.I. and been a member, on and off, for thirty-four years. For those of you who do not, my name is Leslee Friedman, and I am the current secretary for K.I. Craig Caplan, our current president, has asked that each of the officers write a little something about themselves in the Focal Point to allow the congregation to have more of a sense of who their officers are. I chose to write about an incredibly personal, but even more important, topic, covering something I think we all need to give more attention.

I am mentally ill. I suffer from severe clinical depression. Let me be clear about this: this does not mean I am sad. This means that, when not properly medicated, I spend most if not all of my time thinking how much I would like to kill myself. This means the desire to be dead is all I feel in those periods of time. This means that, I can be on medication that works, but isn't quite right, and think the best I am going to feel—ever—is simply not-suicidal. For most persons who suffer from mental illness, medication is helpful, if not an absolute necessity. In many cases, it is the latter.

Medication for mental illness has almost as much stigma attached to it as the illnesses themselves. People who take psychotropic drugs are weak, we "just want to feel good all the time," we "are not strong enough in our connection to G-d." That last one is something I learned about from a friend. Evidently, in certain sects of Christianity, taking medications for mental illness is frowned upon because if the ill person "just believed in Christ enough," they would feel the joy they do not feel.

Judaism, to its credit, does not approach treatment for mental illnesses in precisely this way. The Torah has examples of depression in figures like Saul. Saul has periods of extreme dejection, jealousy-fueled rage at David, and otherwise irrational melancholy. The Torah tells us that David playing the harp for him helped somewhat with these emotional periods. In the Torah, David's music is the "therapy" Saul needs. Obviously, in biblical times, the type of drugs we have today

T'KIYA GADOL-OFF CONTEST

This year's T'Kiya Gadol-Off contest was the 15th! It was started when Dan Kass, who was the Youth Director and Jr. Congregation Director then, was looking for an extra activity for the kids to keep their interest, since the service ended earlier than anticipated. It started as a teaching opportunity to explain how to blow the shofar including all three notes: T'kiya, Shvarim, and Teruah. Then, he let the kids blow the shofar. The idea to make it a contest came as one of the kids started to see how long he could blow the shofar. Then, everybody wanted to see how long they could blow it. The rest is history! That year's winner was Zach Claster who has held the record since then with a 32 second note, or T'Kiya G'dolah.

After the contest was over and the kids returned to the main service, Dan told his father, Saul Kass, of blessed memory, about the success of the program...and that he needed to send a check to the Sisterhood's gift shop as that's where the winners could redeem their prizes! Since Saul's passing, Dan has taken over the "funding" role.

Now, back to that long lasting record...it was broken this year by Jackson Jacobson, last year's winner by the way, with a note of 36 seconds. This record may never be broken! In fact, I understand that Jackson's face is still red from his effort. Jackson, according to his father Richard Jacobson, has taken up the trumpet this past summer which has helped him with his shofar blowing. The other winners this year were Frankie Goldstein, Jordyn Stone, and Jonathan Kosiborod.

Special thanks goes to Dr. Michael Sokol who has served as the judge of the contest for Dan who sings in the K.I. Bimah Choir.

Part of K.I.'s Cub Scout Pack 3153 competing in "ping pong ball" races at October 2014's Pack meeting. Pack 3153 has set a Pack record of 44 cubs enrolled in the program which is open to boys in the 1st through 5th grades. For more information regarding Cub Scout Pack 3153, contact Ted Goldstein (913.642.8023/tgoldstein613@gmail.com) or Elly Goldstein (913.687.9863/elly.goldstein@bostonbeer.com).

K.I. Synagogue,

Thank you so much for giving your time to work around the Ronald McDonald House. Your generous gift of time and effort is greatly appreciated by the staff and families at RMHC. So many thoughtful and generous people like yourself help us to provide a special place for families with seriously ill children. Giving your time and hard work does truly make a difference.

Sincerely,

Lucy, Volunteer for Ronald McDonald House Charities

Dr. Greenberg will share her research and ideas on the critical topic of anti-Semitism and its relevance to the Jewish people.

Dr. Greenberg founded the Holocaust Remembrance Forum in Topeka and has served as the Liaison to the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council for the state of Kansas. She has been active in Holocaust related educational projects since 1982. Currently, she serves on the Kansas Holocaust Commission. Dr. Greenberg brings interdisciplinary experience in social behavior to the study of the Jewish people in the Diaspora. She believes that we can enlarge our view of the past and present with an alternative explanation for the long-standing animosity toward Jews. Dr. Greenberg's message is one of hope for the future of the Jewish people.
